

Delhi through the lens

Curated by Ram Rahman, and on display at PhotoInk in Delhi until June 21, these photographs of the capital's buildings from the 1950s to the 1980s in the exhibition Delhi Modern: The Architectural Photographs of Madan Mahatta give you a sense of Nehruvian modernism in architecture. Celebrate the glory days of Indian modernism and some of its finest architects through these portraits of the city

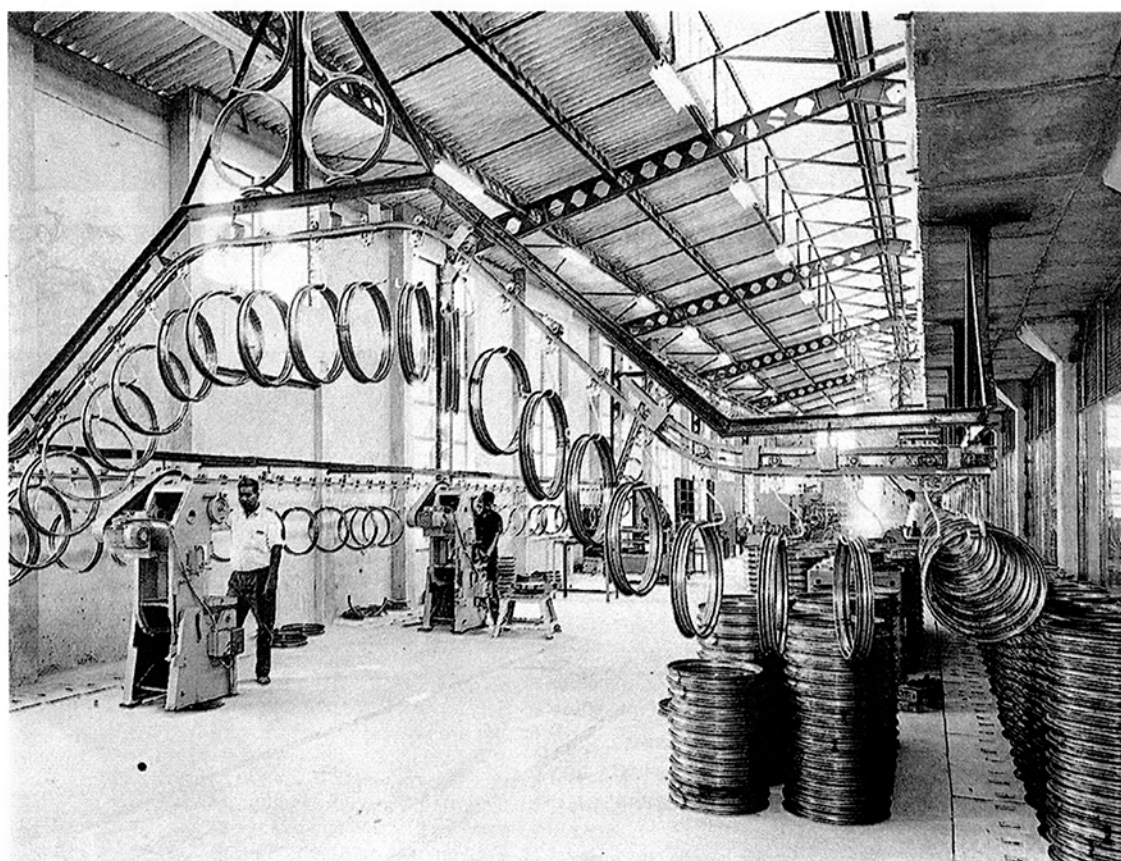

↙ Aerial view of the construction of the Palika parking in Connaught Place, 1983. PICS/ MADAN MAHATTA/ PHOTOINK

↓ Nehru Pavilion, 1985. Architect: Raj Rewal

↑ Bahai Temple, 1987. Architect: Fariborz Sahba

→ Syrian Orthodox Church, 1982. Architect: The Design Group

↗ Inside the Escorts factory, II, 1965. Architect: Joseph Allen Stein